

[illegible]

A process to determine the impact location of a transmitter-bearing object which is released for tracking purposes or to hit a target within a geographical area, wherein data obtained from the impact location can be used to determine the relation of the impact location and the target.

- 19 -